

Natives Sentenced.

DARWIN, June 12

ALL three of the accused aborigines who were found guilty of having speared Rev. L. T. Webb, a missionary, and his assistant (Mr. Robertson) were sentenced to three years' imprisonment, with hard labour. The Judge said discipline was necessary at the missions, and the punishment inflicted on natives was justified. He was not concerned in the feud between Revs. Watson and Jennison, he said, and there was no justification for Rev. Jennison's telegram to the Administrator.
